

AS SEEN IN...nov/dec 2010

www.susquehannastyle.com

Past honorees include (clockwise) Julie Lando, Jennifer Powell, Anne Deeter Gallaher & Valerie Pritchett.

Read about this year's women on pages 74-85

JOIN US...

Celebrate Women!

Tuesday, November 16 at
The Hilton Harrisburg
from 5:30-8:00pm.

Honoring our featured Women of Distinction and Women in Business throughout the region with cocktails and networking.

You and your company don't want to miss this special Style Insider Happy Hour event with some of the area's most influential women.

Enjoy "Purse Power" $5 martinis and creative courses of complimentary hors d'oeuvres.

Plus, try the macaroons featured on our cover from Providence Divine Cakes & Pastries in York!

There'll be Style Scene posing and pictures, prizes and more during this elegant evening of compelling conversations and connections.

Your $10 entrance donation will benefit the PA Breast Cancer Coalition.

CELEBRATE WOMEN!

Tuesday, November 16: 5:30-8:00pm
The Hilton Harrisburg
One North Second Street, Harrisburg
RSVP today! Space is limited!
www.susquehannastyle.com/archives/celebrate-women

LIFE IN THE SUSQUEHANNA VALLEY

Compiled by: Emily Marcolina Ward

here & NOW

INSPIRATIONAL DESIGN

The uniformed soldier is a distinct image of American pride and heroism. Eve Baum, founder of MilitaryHandbag.com, has cultivated a compelling line of accessories fashioned from recycled military fatigues. The sentiment is clear; everyday citizens can own, and wear, a reminder of bravery and sacrifice. Soldiers can retire their uniforms and Eve will create personalized handbags, stockings, wallets and other accessories for their loved ones. Aside from sending a great message, the products are well crafted and stylish! Since 2007, the Adams County company has been determined to "change the world one handbag at a time," so make sure to spread patriotism and cheer this holiday season by checking out the website of this local movement.

See a range of styles and options online at www.MilitaryHandbag.com